A Cyber-Security Expert Trolled the Trolls. Then One Killed Him.

A Japanese cyber-security expert who defended basic decency was stabbed to death over the weekend. His killer was a troll who confessed he took revenge.

Let’s discuss the source of this project.

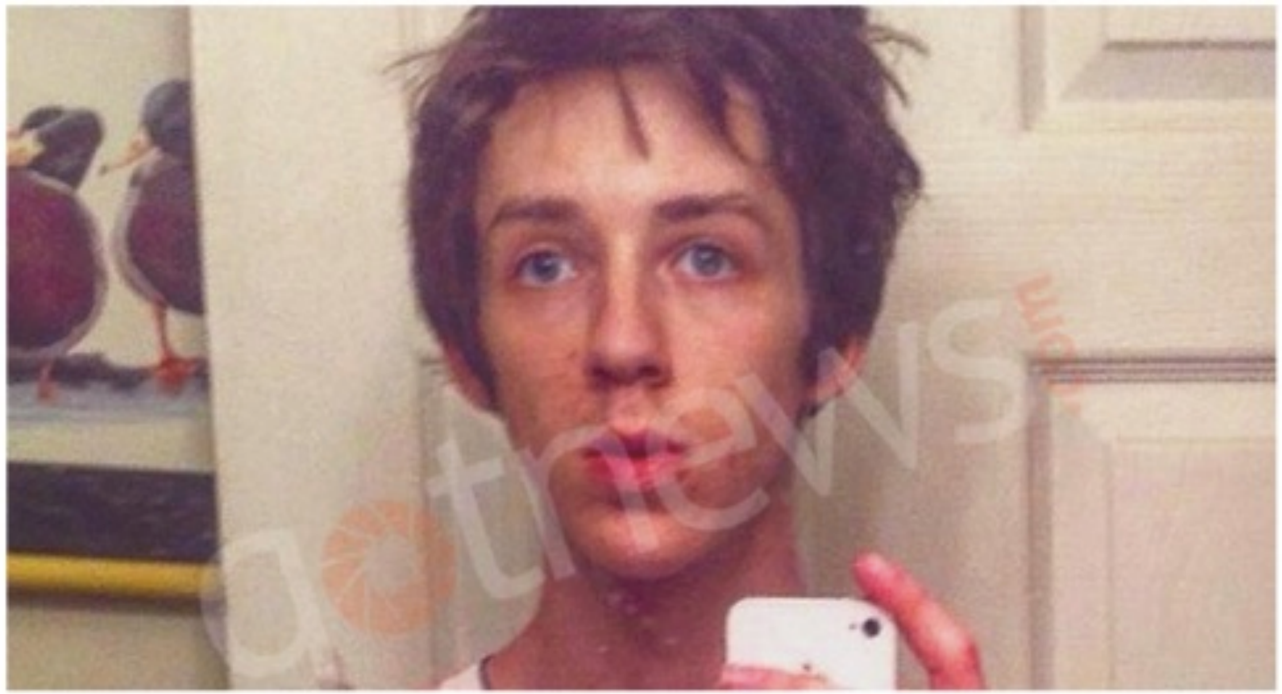
BREAKING: #Charlottesville Car Terrorist Is Anti-Trump, Open Borders Druggie

AUG 12, 2017 by gotnews 0



SOURCE: INSTAGRAM SCREENSHOT.

Evidence indicates a left-winger mowed down antifa counter-protestors in Charlottesville, not a right-winger or white nationalist, GotNews can exclusively reveal.

Identification: “The Hunter”

1. Identify “bot” accounts.
2. Identify “fake news” postings.
3. ~~Identify “hate speech”.~~

Bots:

1. Does the language set == language of tweet?
2. Does the tweet come from a standard ‘source’?
3. Does the ‘source’ or ‘screen name’ have ‘bot’ in it?
4. Is the screen name ‘strange’ (lots of _’s or #’s)?
5. Does the tweet have a lot of #hashtags?
6. Did the user bother to set a timezone?
7. Did the user bother to set a URL?
8. Did the user bother to set a ‘description’?
9. How many people do they follow?
10. How many followers do they have?
11. Does the user have a default profile picture?
12. Does the user have a default background image?
13. Does the user have a default background color?
14. When was the account create?
15. How many tweets do they tweet per day?
16. Is the tweet already associated with other bots?
17. If there are URLs in the tweet, do they point to a URL shortener?
18. How many ‘likes’ or ‘favorites’ do they do per/day?

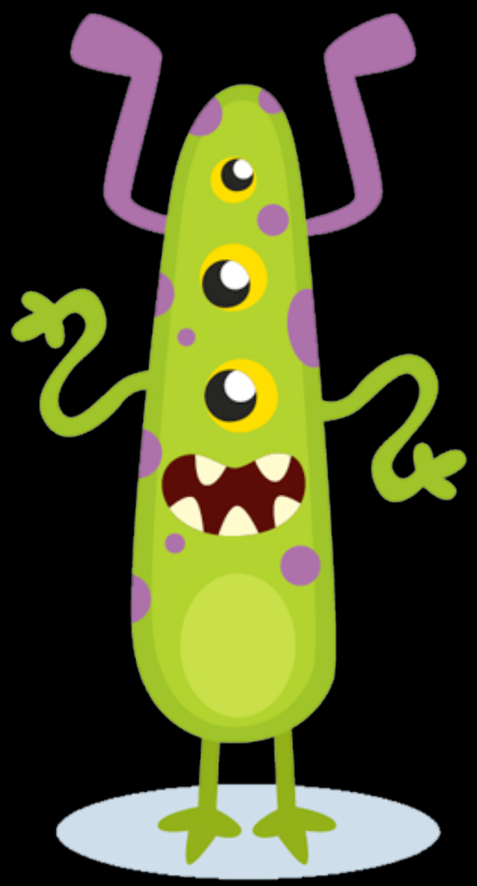
“The Hunter”



Lots
of people have built ‘bot’
identification machines.

The next machine will interact with what the “hunter” finds.
Summary

User interaction: “The Poster”

1. Randomly picks a target out of the database the “Hunter” created (bot/fake news/~~hate speech~~).
2. The “Poster” will send the target a message.
3. The message will be a specially crafted URL.

User interaction: “The Poster”

“@screen_name Our system has identified you are a poster of fake news. Are we wrong? Please see:”

“@screen_name Our system has identified you as a ‘bot’. You can review our analysis at: “

https://botlogic.io/?id={id}&v={sha1}

User interaction: “The Poster”

The Twitter API is very well “policed”.

The “Poster” had to use the web interface. This clearly breaks ToS.

To better understand the Adversary, we decided to try and act like them.

This machine will be called the “Poster”.

Using the Botlogic.io API

botlogic.io

Botlogic.io uses the most advanced Artificial intelligence, Machine Learning algorithms, Cloud Computing and other non-sense to hunt down bots, fake news and hate speach on twitter. Botlogic.io does not need access to your Twitter account.

We provide a free API to access our data. For more information, see the API documentation

The Twitter screen name "[redacted]" has been determined to 'Bot'. If you believe our Machine Learning algorithms are in error, we would love to hear from you! Please call 1-866-776-0772 (United States) or +1-650-230-0542. When prompted, enter the code '828063'. Botlogic.io staff is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

If you were contacted via Twitter, you will not be contacted again

Why
in the heck would you do this?

User interaction: "The Phone System"

1. The first thing we do is inform the caller that the call will be recorded!

2. We can use the targets phone number to identify the geographic area.

3. When the person calls, we get an open mic in the room!

4. It has the potential to be funny.

This will be our “phone system”

“Systems” overview:

Review of data exploitation stages:

- Stage 1 - Normal Twitter: data recon via API (username, possible location, timezone, possible geolocation, etc).
- Stage 2 - Website Recon: IP address used (Geolocation), web browser type.
- Stage 3 - Website Javascript: true browser type, extensions/software installed, browser language set, screen size/width/color.
- Stage 4 - Phone system: Phone number of the caller (Geolocation), open “mic” in the room.

The final step.

Unintended consequences: Sanctions on Russia hurt US dollar dominance

Unintended consequences: Sanctions on Russia hurt US dollar dominance — RT USA

The US dollar, the dominant global currency since 1944, may lose some of its luster due to the American-led sanctions against Russia over the turmoil in Ukraine. The greenback has been fading in favor since the global financial crisis in 2008.

The US-led sanctions against Russia may have backfired on the US because it threatens to "hasten a move away from the dollar that's been stirring since the global financial crisis [in 2008]," Rachel Evans at Bloomberg wrote. In an unexpected turn of events, Hong Kong's central bank has bought more than $9.5 billion since the start of July "to prevent its currency from rallying as the sanctions stoked speculation of an influx of Russian cash," she noted.

"OAO MegaFon, Russia's second-largest wireless operator, shifted some cash holdings into the city's dollar,"according to Bloomberg. "Trading of the Chinese yuan versus the Russian ruble rose to the highest on July 31 since the end of 2010, according to the Moscow Exchange."

In March, after Crimea voted to secede from Ukraine and join Russia, the US and European Union imposed visa restrictions on @Botlogic_io accused me of being "fake" and promoting "fake news"

Now we have robots and algorithms making judgment calls?
I pray #JudgementDay comes quick and KNOW I will be found to promote the truth of The Lord Jesus Christ despite the godless claims of Mark Zuckerberg's robot
